Oddfellows and Rebekahs Joint Memorial Service

Sunday last was a notable day with Vulcan Oddfellows and Rebekahs, the occasion being the annual memorial service and decoration ceremony in which the Canadian Legion and the general public participated.

The members of the two orders, with visitors, assembled in the I.O.O.F. hall at 2:15 and from thence paraded to the Vulcan theatre headed by Vulcan Citizens' band.

At the theatre a most impressive service was held—the band led the congregational singing of "Lead Kindly Light" and this was followed by Rev. V. E. Smith (Anglican) who offered prayer; Mrs. (Rev.) Isaacson and Miss Beulah Walker sang a duet "In the Time of Roses"; Rev. J. N. Brunton (United Church) gave an eloquent and suitable address, and Miss Hartwig sang "Recessional."

Miss Mabel McPherson accompanied all vocal numbers. Rev. R. Isaacson (Church of Christ) gave an appropriate address which was followed by the singing of "Abide With Me" led by the band.

Benediction, pronounced by Rev. V. E. Smith closed the proceedings in the theatre.

The cemetery was then visited and here the concluding part of the beautiful service took place in delightful weather: Decoration ceremony. Noble Grand Samaritan Lodge; Prayer, Chaplain Clover Leaf Rebekah Lodge Duet, "Come Unto Me," Mrs. White and Mr. Weale; Formation of the Cross by Sister of the Clover Leaf Lodge; Band, "Nearer My God to Thee"; Taps and Decoration; Decoration Address, Noble Grand Samaritan Lodge; Prayer, Chaplain Clover Leaf Lodge.

The ceremonies were under the direction of Mr. E. G. McPherson and all participants are to be congratulated on the undoubted success attending the afternoon's rites.

EASTWAY

Miss Morrison was hostess to the Eastway W.I. on June 5th.

Mr. Bond who for several months past has been residing in High River is now with his daughter, Mrs. M. P. Marshall at Eastway.

Mrs. Martin of Vulcan gave an interesting address to the ladies who met at Mrs. Jennejohn's on July 17, and a duet by Mrs. Brodick and Mrs. W. Marshall was most enjoyed, as also was the contest, Mrs. W. Peterson and lady friend being the winners.

The Eastway W.I. entertained members of the Vulcan and Arrowwood W.I.'s and Berrywater U.F.W.A. at the home of Mrs. Jennejohn on June 17th, a large number of ladies being present in spite of the unpleasant weather conditions. Mrs. Lewis presided. The afternoon's program was varied and interesting. Three of the visiting ladies, Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Clifford Love and Mrs. Colby Carr were welcome contributors to the program and special mention should be made of an exhibition of needlework and curios and mementos of various countries which were beautifully arranged and exhibited by Miss Jennejohn and Mrs. Nevra. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Nevra in full Norwegian gala costume accompanied by Miss Nowlin, costumed as a young lady from Samoa, sang the Norwegian National Anthem. Members of the local W.I. were good in a sketch entitled a "Matrimonial Advertisement"; and Mrs. Lewis' recitation was also good. Mrs. Brodick accompanied the opening and closing songs and the community singing, and at the close, lunch was served by the hostess and friends.

The following pupils of Miss Ruby Graham were successful in the recent examinations of the Royal Academy of Music. All pupils entered by Miss Graham passed in their respective grades.

Several of these pupils have carried two examinations this year, and both teacher and pupils are to be congratulated.

BASEBALL TOURNEY WON BY STAVELEY

The final game between Vulcan and Staveley was a free scoring exhibition ending up 14-13.

It was interesting to the fair crowd that turned out as there was a variety of good hitting and fair fielding by ball teams. The fifth and sixth innings went wild for both clubs with a total of fifteen runs being scored in the two innings.

Welliver pitched a good game until the fifth when Staveley batters drove in five runs, scoring a total of twelve runs up to this time. He was replaced by McLaren who held Staveley down to two runs in the rest of the game.

A feature of the game was two home runs by Eddie Love of Vulcan and one by McLaren, while Happy Ray and Steckle each collected home runs for Staveley.

The batters for both teams seemed to be on their lucky day much to the distress of the pitchers on either team.

Free pitched seven innings for Staveley allowing twelve runs while Ray pitched two innings allowing one run.

The first game of the day played between Staveley and Carmangay resulted in a win for Staveley to the score of 8-2. Walker pitched for Carmangay but had trouble holding down the hard-hitting Staveley team, while the veteran Slim Haynes, pitching for Staveley was throwing his usual stellar game with the result that Carmangay batters could get but a few scattered hits. The game was very interesting but wind and dust made it very disagreeable for both spectators and players which possibly explained the reason for the comparatively small crowd that turned out.

There will be more home games at Vulcan in the near future which will be advertised with bills about town. These games should be very interesting and the ball players will very much appreciate your attendance, only 25 cents.

LOCAL LAD KILLED IN ACCIDENT HERE

The sympathy of the community was extended, on Saturday evening, to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Robson, on the sudden and accidental death of their fourteen-year-old son, Davie.

Deceased was assisting his dad to plow trees during which work one of the horses became slow—the lad tapped the animal with the lines, this causing the horse to kick when the boy sustained such injuries in the abdomen that he died notwithstanding skilful treatment at Vulcan hospital.

Besides the parents, a brother, Willie, aged 18, and sister, Jeanette, aged 6, are left to mourn. Mrs. McWhinnie and family are also close relatives and it will be remembered that it is only a very short while ago that the death of Mr. McWhinnie cast a gloom over the community.

The funeral took place yesterday (Wednesday) from the home of Mrs. McWhinnie, and interment took place in Vulcan cemetery.

All roads seem to lead to holiday land; some for one day, others much longer.

We regret to report that Clay Snow was hurt by a tractor running over his leg one day last week.

Red Cross girls played the return game in town on Thursday night with Mrs. Fletcher's team. Our girls returned with a favorable score of 4-3.

Quite exciting was the game Friday night against Vulcan juniors. Inning in and inning out it was 0-0 until Red Cross really got busy and scored, finally thirteen runs to Vulcan's one. Great credit was due to the home pitcher.

DOMINION DAY

July 1 is an exclusively Canadian holiday, commemorating the Union of the Provinces of Canada into the Dominion. This was brought about by the British North America Act which came into force on July 1, 1867 and which united the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Manitoba united in 1870, British Columbia in 1871 and Prince Edward Island in 1873. In 1870 also, the North West Territories became a part of the Dominion but it was not until 1905 that Saskatchewan and Alberta became provincial units of the Dominion.

A glance backward at the causes leading up to Confederation, and the attitude of the Fathers of Confederation is not without interest.

Ontario and Quebec, with equal representation in their joint Assembly were deadlocked a great part of the time, and between 1862 and 1865, five ministries held office. Parties were so equally balanced that the vote of one member could decide the fate of the government. Legislation became a senseless struggle between the two provinces and the leaders realizing the futility of the battle, threw down verbal arms, and sought a better form of government. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia were confronted with incidents in connection with the American Civil War, which persuaded them to see advantage in a Union with the other provinces.

Abandoning party beliefs, the foremost men from each province met at the Quebec Conference, to evolve some scheme which would be acceptable to the British government. Of French, English, Scottish and Irish descent, were these "Fathers of Confederation." A fitting body to carry the responsibilities of fair adjustment amongst the provinces. Etienne Tache, veteran of the war of 1812 was chairman, but Sir John A. Macdonald was the most prominent member of the gathering. George Etienne Cartier was the wise and tactful leader of the Quebec representatives, who brought his province into Confederation and safeguarded its interests. George Brown, editor of the Toronto Globe, though a decided Liberal, dropped all party prejudices in a desire to bring about a satisfactory Union. Among Nova Scotian representatives were Charles Tupper and Adams Archibald. New Brunswick's leader was Samuel Leonard Tilley. Other historic names in that party of thirty-four leaders are George Coles of P.E.I., Langevin, Oliver Mowat, Thomas Darcy McGee, Alexander Galt and a score of others.

The conference debate lasted eighteen days and its results were summed up in seventy-two resolutions. These were presented to the British Government and were accepted as the foundation of the British North American Act which united the Dominion under its present system.

No greater achievement, no more unselfish purpose has ever marked any gathering of Canadian statesmen, than that which evolved the legislation on which the Dominion is laid. No names are more worthy of an honored place in the memory of Canadians, than the names of the Fathers of Confederation.

THE CABINET SITS

An amusing political story is circulating in the East, and is told with gusto by the Lethbridge Herald. It adds a tickling excitement to realize that if such a story were let loose about Stalin, the perpetrator would be probably either deported or shot. After all, we do enjoy certain privileges in this free spoken land.

"Two Liberal M.P.'s met a Conservative M.P. who was a friend of theirs in Ottawa. One of the Liberals said to his Tory friend: 'Say John, you are working the Premier too hard—first thing you know he'll blow up and go all to pieces!'

"'Oh no,' John says, 'I don't think so. He's all right.' 'Right nothing' said the Liberal M.P. 'I walked down three blocks behind him the other day and he was talking to himself all down the three blocks. Now when a man talks to himself, he's getting ready for the blow up. You'll have to put him away pretty soon.'

"'Oh no,' John replied, 'I don't think there is any cause for worry. He wasn't talking to himself at all. He was just holding a meeting of the cabinet.'"

HOOVER'S HOLIDAY

A wonderful psychological reaction is evident over the world, as a result of the war debt proposals announced by President Hoover on June 22. The war debt "holiday" offers a release for one year from war debts and reparations payments. This is offered as an aid to general economic recovery and to political peace, and the gesture of goodwill may well be the forerunner of better international understanding. Britain and Canada are in hearty accord. Germany breathes relief. France is likely to accept

CAPTURE OF THE KID

Much commendation has been expressed for the efficient work of the A.P.P. in running to earth the fourth member of the Midwinter murder, namely Cassidy, "the Kid" of Truro, N.S. No one can withhold credit for the clever work of the police, but amongst the paeans of praise, has been one which has grated. The writer said: "I got a great kick out of the capture."

Surely he has not expressed his sentiments accurately. Surely even the police themselves, whose duty it was to pursue the search, did not get a "kick" out of the apprehension of a 19-year-old boy on such a charge.

According to the press, the boy's father died in a mine explosion in 1918, leaving his six-year-old boy. How did society care for the boy in those intervening years, between six and nineteen? What efforts were made to console his loneliness, to guide his footsteps rightly?

He came West. Circumstances may have driven him. It is quite possible that he may have tried to find work. Many boys of that age, with education and character and influence have tried in vain to find work. But they have fallen back on the security of homes, while the Kid was alone, without a home.

He fell into the company of older men, which is easily conceivable. In his presence a ruthless, brutal murder was committed by one of the men. And the other members of the party fell off how "the Kid" kept crying over the act as they fled.

We say that he should at once have informed the police. We who are on the safe side of the law, who have always looked on it as protection say this. But no doubt the Kid had fallen foul of the law on minor occasions. To him it meant punishment, not protection. And at his back was a killer. What would most of us, at 19 or 20, entangled in the horrors of such a situation have done. Probably, in sheer fear, we would have stayed with the gang. And he beat his way across the continent, back to the only home he knew.

With no desire to minimize his offence, it must be admitted that it is a situation into which many a homeless boy might fall.

All over the country at the present time are young boys of that age, hobnobbing round, because there is no work, obliged to leave home because their homes can not support them, falling under evil influences and growing callous to crime.

Society has responsibility for these young people, who are its wards. Primarily, parents have responsibility, in safeguarding their children against the first wrong step; in strengthening them with defense against temptation, and above all in providing them with the security of home and understanding and companionship. It is that conviction that nobody cares, that so often leads young people to carelessness and crime.

Society and governments have a serious responsibility for the children who are orphaned, or who have no kindly home environment. It is rarely that a twelve-year-old is a potential criminal. All he needs is guidance and affection to make him a useful citizen. But he slips away uncaared for, in his adolescent years, and the result is all too costly to society.

In this age of efficiency, how little has been done to make use of these by-products of society. In the cost of jails, penitentiaries and asylums, they eat up the profits. In the meantime we build up fine herds, build better roads and grander buildings, while through lack of direction, our great human assets go to waste.

In connection with crimes such as that of the Kid, we say smugly: "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." Has society done its utmost in providing good seed and good soil. Or has it been indifferent until the weeds have sprung up and then turned in ruthless punishment. There are other sayings which it is better not to forget "Judge not that ye be not judged" and "Him that is without sin amongst you, let him cast the first stone."

RED BREAD

Amongst those who read widely, the latest book "Red Bread" from the author of "Humanity Uprooted," is said to be the most convincing presentation of the Russian situation so far presented. The Lethbridge Herald says:

"In 'Red Bread' the author of 'Humanity Uprooted' and 'Broken Earth' has written another excellent book dealing with that gigantic social laboratory in Soviet Russia. The reader who wishes to know, both in its general economic aspects and in its human details, what is happening to the Russian peasant in that immense drive to collectivize the country's agriculture which is the focal point of the Communist regime, can do no better than to read 'Red Bread.' The reasons for the intensive campaign now in progress, its strategy and objectives, its strengths and its weaknesses—above all, its human implications, are all admirably set forth in Mr. Hindu's new volume.

The author, as is known to those familiar with his earlier books, passed his youth in one of the villages of Central Russia, and has frequently revisited the country since the revolution. As an observer, therefore, he has the considerable advantage of familiarity with pre-revolutionary conditions, intimate understanding of the people of whom he writes, and knowledge of their language. Add to these an eye for whatever is truly significant and interesting, an attitude of fair-mindedness and the ability to present his material in a highly interesting fashion, and the value of Mr. Hindu's contribution to American comprehension of his subject is readily apparent."

REVIVAL OF THE SMOKE HOUSE

Back to the Old Days When the Farm Operated on Self-Sustaining Basis

Pioneer days are here again and it is said that over the countryside the old smoke houses that have been crumbling to decay, are being redecorated and are all the style. There is to be a revival of home cured ham and home-made head-cheese and salted down meats. Farmers are packing their grain to the village grist mill and returning with their own flour. More people than for many a year are making their own butter, and the old art is reasserting itself. No doubt this summer many will be canning vegetables and there will be a big raid on saskatoons. In a hundred little ways, economies, long fallen into disuse, will be revived on the farms. Probably many have set out gardens of small fruits, and are safeguarding these with wind breaks. Others have started small scale apiculture.

During the prosperous years, there was little need to turn every facility to account. Money came easily and the farmer proved himself a good spender creating an abundance of work for other industries. Now he has no choice but to guard his every outlay. But if driven to it, he is in the happy position of being almost self sustaining.

Unfortunately, however, other industries are not in the same happy position, and the thrift of the agricultural ranks is apt to have a depressing effect on the turn over of secondary industries. Until the purchasing power of wheat and farm products rises on a parity with factory products, there can be no definite return to normal good times.

PERHAPS IT'S IN YOUR HEAD

When a Horse Balks—It is in the Head Not Legs

It will do you good to read what an English editor thinks of America's condition. It is well described under the heading of "A Message to American Business Men," from the pen of N. Casson, editor of Efficiency Magazine, London:

"You are depressed. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears."

"You have the gold of the world and half the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers."

"You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen."

"You are ruled by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world, you have usually done what you thought you could."

"How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be wrecked by the speculations of a little handful of fools in Wall Street?"

"There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it."

"Dollars are now being sold for 30 cents. Practically every security in the United States is now being sold for less than its value."

"The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risks."

"Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in slumps."

"Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye Gods! What a chance there is at this moment."

"In five years time from now most American business men will belong to the 'I Wish I Had Club.'"

"Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for 30 cents. The opportunity will be gone."

"When a horse balks—it is in the head, not in the legs. He moves on only when he thinks he will."

CENSUS TAKER MEETS WATERLOO

Town Census Taking a Simple Matter, But Farm Census Exhausting Process

To ask a farmer's wife how much money she has made out of butter and eggs, is to ask a question that should remain a secret between her and her maker. But the census taker asks it, and demands an answer.

A rural enumerator giving his experiences to the Toronto Star, claims that the butter and egg items should be on a separate form and taken privately so the men folk need never know. This little item brought right into the open, has caused no end of fuss.

All in all, the census taker suffers for the farmer who has to unobscure his most cherished secrets. More than that, he has to do an endless amount of preliminary bookkeeping. To quote:

"He perhaps wants to forget how many hired men came and went, ate three square meals and loafed twelve hours a day. But the government won't let him forget them. In addition, it piles into the delicate question of what he paid them."

"The farmer has to count his chickens both before and after hatching. He has to state the number of his eggs and bees, his beets and trees, his onions and his berry bushes. He has to remember how many trees he tapped for sap and must record the number of fence posts and telephone poles he cut, and how many cords of poplar, beech and pine he split up."

"Not content with demanding a list of tractors, combines, milking machines, as if compiling an inventory to help the auctioneer sell him out, the census people want to know where every cent he handled came from and where it went."

"It wouldn't be so bad" protested a farm wife "if they only asked what eggs and butter we sold. I might come close to that. But to know how much we ate is a puzzle, with extra hands for haying and harvesting and folks coming all the time from the city. How can I remember every time I've heard a hen cackle, I'll just make a guess and let it go and they can put me in jail if they have to."

"One question brings great mirth. This is 'mules and mule colts on farm June 1, 1931.' It seems that Ottawa doesn't know there ain't no such animal as mule colts."

DANGER LIES IN PADLOCKED MIND

Only Those Receptive to Other Ideas Can Be Prepared for Future Changes

Every new idea that ever came into the world has been opposed by "experts" says Bruce Barton.

"Napoleon scoffed at the steamship; Wellington would never believe the breech-loading rifle was any good; Vanderbilt refused to credit the crazy notion of Westinghouse that trains could be stopped by jamming air against the wheels. Other great surgeons scoffed at Lister's antiseptic treatment."

"We must keep our minds open to new ideas. Often we will be misled but it is out of reason to believe that God has completed his process of revelation and that nothing new can be learned."

In this connection the popular trend of expression is a great condemnation of Russia, "without much effort to discover whether or not she may have some ideas from which we might profit."

At times one hears the declaration that all capitalistic powers should combine to overthrow the Soviet, as a menace to society.

"But anyone looking over capitalistic countries must admit that this economic organization of ours leaves much to be desired. It would be wiser to study the ground work and development of Russia's plan, to learn if there might not be something we could apply to make our decrepit economic machine a little better."

"There is nothing more dangerous than the padlocked mind, which refuses to recognize change, and refuses to consider any ideas except those crystallized by custom."

WESTERN MEMBERS WORKING FOR WEST

Dr. Stanley and Dr. Gershaw Thought of Opposing Parties, Strong for Alberta

Dr. Stanley, the Conservative M.P. for East Calgary, made a strong Alberta speech in the budget dealing particularly with coal and wheat and the necessity for developing the production of beef and bacon. He put forward some very sound arguments and produced figures to back up his case. While he is a supporter of the protectionist policy of his leader, he did not hesitate to maintain that if Central Canada manufacturers were to be given the same market by reason of the tariff, the Alberta coal producer had a perfect right to expect his product should be used more widely in Canada. If protection was good for the East, then the East should recognize that it must be good for the West. The doctor also enlightened the Eastern members of the House about the industrial possibilities of Alberta, with its coal and cheaper fuel. "Come on out to the West and use them," was the cry he sent out to the Eastern industrialists. Dr. Stanley did not take any extreme partisan ground on protection but put forward a very reasonable case for Alberta and its resources.

Dr. Gershaw, who is one of the most diligent members of the Commons, is not allowing the government to forget the wool and beet sugar industries. In his budget deliverance he presented facts and figures to show that these branches of agriculture were suffering while eastern Canada boomed through the tariff. Dr. Gershaw, when the resolution stage of the budget is reached is expected to put a straight question to the Prime Minister as to his neglect to care for wool and sugar beets as he had intimated to the deputations that pressed him for action.

A seeding cleaning plant valued at $25,000 will be built at Edmonton this summer.

A SMALL ENTRANCE GARDEN COTTAGE

This charming little lumber-built cottage is an emphatic denial of the frequently made suggestion that it is impossible to achieve genuine architectural beauty in a very small home of low cost on a small lot.

Although only twenty-four feet wide, this five-room cottage compactly provides every modern facility of the larger, more expensive home. We find an open fireplace in an ample living room, a quaint little living porch, a small entrance hall, four large closets, and excellent light and ventilation throughout the house.

Setting often means even more to the small home than to the imposing structure. So much of the general appearance of this cottage will depend upon its surroundings that the builder should not neglect the entrance garden or the flag stone walks—intimate parts of this design.

Silver Wedding Gifts Go Through as Trophies of War

Two good stories have trickled out of the customs service.

In one a New York tourist purchased a sealskin coat to take to his wife in Manhattan. Afraid the duty would be too high he asked a girl bound on the same train to New York to wear the coat. She agreed but when they reached New York she denied any knowledge of the coat and threatened to call the police. The purchased knew a heavy fine awaited him if he declared the coat to be his and was doomed to silence while his gift walked out of the station in the possession of the wrong woman.

The other story concerns a Montreal couple who had visited the United States and there celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Returning to Montreal with many pieces of silver, gifts from friends of the country to the south, they were met with a demand for duty. They protested that gifts were not dutiable. The customs men went into conference and at length one smiled and said: "You two have been married 25 years?" "Yes," was the reply. "Then in that case these are not gifts they are trophies."

Trophies of war and sport are duty free.

RING BULL'S NOSE
SAFETY MEASURE

It is never wise to conclude that the sire of the herd is safe and reliable as to temper. Most of the accidents occasioned by bulls are a result of confidence that the bull is gentle.

None of them are safe enough to take chances with and all should have a sound ring in the nose. A light ring should be put in the nose of every bull before he is a year old. Leave the ring strictly alone, to allow the nose time to heal and be gentle for some time. Care and kindness will teach the bull to handle properly on the ring when he is young.

Mature bulls should be fitted with heavy strong bull rings which will stand full force on the staff.

The ring is in the bull's nose to lead him and not to tie him.—Dairy-men's Topics.

WARNING AGAINST CUTWORM PEST

Subscriber Sends Following Suggestions Regarding Great Crop Pest

Already the cutworm has done considerable damage in large areas in Saskatchewan and in Alberta. If farmers had taken the warning a year ago of guarding against this pest for this year's crop, no doubt considerable saving of wheat would have been effected. The damage to the 1932 crop will depend absolutely and solely upon the way fields are handled.

The moth of the cutworm flies across the fields and lays its eggs, starting in the first few days of August, reaching its maximum flight about the 20th, and continuing to fly and lay eggs until about the middle of September. This moth will avoid all land that has had eggs upon any soil where this crust has been broken, however slightly. To avoid cutworm damage on a field, therefore, it is necessary that on summerfallowed fields all work should stop by the first of August or a very few days afterwards. Then a very slight rain will form a crust on these fields, which will render them immune the following year from cutworm damage. It is important that no horses or stock or implements or wagons shall be allowed to cross any summerfallow prepared in this fashion, because wherever the crust is broken by animals or implements, there the moth will lay its eggs, and considerable damage will be experienced the following year. On fields in crop, where harvesting operations are conducted before about September 1st, then damage the following year is almost certain to be experienced unless these fields are summerfallowed.

It is apparent, therefore, that all fields which are cropped this year, as far as possible, should be summerfallowed in the year 1932 and that in addition all work on summerfallowed fields this year should cease as soon after August 1st as possible, and that nothing should be allowed to walk over or cross these fields.

H. L. Seamans, Dominion Entomologist stationed at Lethbridge Laboratory, without hesitation states that it far better to allow weeds to grow on the summerfallow after August 1st in these affected areas, rather than to disturb the crust of the soil and so invite cutworm damage.

Also, Mr. K. M. King of the Dominion department of entomology, strongly urges the farmers to take precaution against cutworms as outlined above and goes further in saying that infestation of one cutworm to the square foot can clean off all the crop, which only goes to prove the damage done by this pest and the necessity of every farmer taking this warning as a guard against a similar pest in 1932.

JAY WALKERS ARE GETTING SCARCER

Pedestrians Doing Better for Themselves Than Are Motorists

The pedestrians, apparently, is learning how to take care of himself in traffic much better than the motorist is.

We base this conclusion on the fact that the National Safety Council has just reported that while more than half the persons fatally hurt in automobile accidents are pedestrians, fatalities among drivers are increasing at a far more rapid rate.

Since 1927, deaths to pedestrians have increased only five per cent; among drivers in the same period, deaths have increased 35 per cent. In other words, casualties ending fatally among pedestrians are increasing only about as rapidly as the number of pedestrians increases; among drivers, more than twice as fast as the number of automobiles increase.

The point we are leading to is that "jay walkers," so-called, are on the decline, while the number of drivers who expose themselves to unnecessary risk increases. This is in the nature of things. Pedestrians are developing a sixth, or motorized traffic, sense. What they formerly did by deliberate will they now do almost instinctively. The day is coming when jay-walking will be confined to the mentally defective. It may be a long way off—but it is coming.

MOVE SETTLERS
WITHOUT COST

Alberta Settlers Whose Crops Have Blown Out or Dried May Move Elsewhere

Free transportation of families, stock and equipment, will be made in certain parts of Alberta, to settlers who wish to move to better locations. This arrangement has been made under a tri party agreement between Federal and Provincial governments and the railways.

The areas to be included in the free movement and the time limit for the arrangement have not yet been fixed by the Provincial Dept.

There must also be definite arrangement as to suitable locations for resettlement. These will be probably the foothill country, the near north and the Peace River country. A number of applications are on file at the department and other applications are expected. These will be passed on and if approved the unfortunate victims of circumstances will be transported with no expense of travel.

There has been no movement of this nature since June 1927, but up to that time 1700 families had been moved under the free movement scheme.

Hon. George Hoadley when in Ottawa, arranged for a renewal of this scheme.

He also arranged for an extension of the free freight privilege for the transportation of feed. Federal authorities and railways agreed to a time extension up to June 30. for feed supplies to go into the dry belt.

Coming With Chautauqua, Vulcan July 14-20

"SKIDDING"

This brilliant scintillating comedy of American home and political life will be something altogether new for Canadian Chautauqua audiences. The cast is excellent, and the characters of the play will be appreciated by people in every community throughout the Dominion.

In the twentieth century, families, like automobiles, do a lot of "skidding," but with more tragic results.

A fine love story is interwoven through the play.
